

The archetypal Death Mother as nature's shadow: Infanticide and the deep history of humankind

C.G. Jung Club London, Public Lecture by Daniela F. Sieff, PhD

Thursday 19th October, 2017. 7.30-9.15pm
Essex Church, 112 Palace Gardens Terrace, Nr. Notting Hill Gate, London W8 4RT

Mark Kostabi, 1999, No Yoke

This talk explores the archetypal Death Mother, by building on both the writings of Marion Woodman and research into our evolutionary heritage.

Death Mother constellates such fear we relegate her to the shadows, where she is surrounded by shame. Retrieving Death Mother from the shadows, heals shame and brings understanding to mothers living her energy, and to those who grow up impacted by Death Mother.

This talk concludes with a meditation using stone-age tools, providing an opportunity to connect to our evolutionary heritage.

Daniela F. Sieff, PhD, is an independent scholar with a doctorate in biological anthropology, and an active interest in the dynamics of emotional trauma and its healing. Her doctoral research explored how evolutionary processes contribute to shaping human behavior. Her research took her to a wilderness region of Tanzania to live with a traditional cattle-herders. In recent years, Daniela has explored emotional trauma and healing by interweaving her own experience with knowledge that comes from depth psychology, neurobiology, evolution, and anthropology. She is the author of Understanding and Healing Emotional Trauma: Conversations with Pioneering Clinicians and Researchers (Routledge 2015). For more information, visit www.danielasieff.com
